

translavianic management team

incorporating a passion for linguistics combined with a strong customer focus

Drs. Ewa Posecka, Director of Translavianic BV, graduated in Dutch Philology from the University of Wrocław. She has lived in the USA, the UK and the Netherlands, and has worked for market leaders within the translation industry. In addition, she has also worked as a sworn translator. She understands the translation industry more than anyone and knows that a long-standing business relationship is only possible if you exceed the expectations of the client in terms of quality.

During recent years, Ewa has built up an extensive network of interpreters, translators, revisers, proof-readers, journalistic rewriters and other specialists throughout the whole of Eastern Europe.

ewap@translavianic.com

Ing. Jeroen Hesp has been responsible for the business development of Translavianic since November 2004. Jeroen is a graduate in Electrical Engineering from the Utrecht University of Professional Education. Previously, he worked as an international account manager for an American company specialising in telecommunications. Amongst his clients were Ericsson and Nokia; companies who understand the importance of having a close relationship with their suppliers.

Jeroen's background in engineering has proved indispensable in the selection of highly skilled technical translators and correctors, in the elimination of bottlenecks encountered during the translation process and in the development of close working relationships with clients.

jeroenh@translavianic.com

Drs. Mirjam Kolkman, responsible for Project Management, is a graduate in Translation and Interpreting of the Maastricht School of International Communication. Subsequently she obtained a Master's degree in Slavic Languages and Cultures in Groningen. Mirjam speaks the following languages: Dutch, English, Russian, French and Czech.

Mirjam is an experienced project manager, making sure the very best specialists are working together to deliver high quality translations on time and within budget.

mirjamk@translavianic.com