I have had the opportunity to live in various countries and cities. Thanks to these various experiences, I have developed myself especially on a cultural and linguistic level. These changes in environment have also forced me to adapt to a lot of new situations, which I have been able to do comfortably. I am a self-critical and analytical person, and due to my perfectionist nature I demand the most of myself. I am passionate about learning new things. Right now I am establishing myself here in the Netherlands and am therefore looking for new professional experiences.

Professional Experience:

12/2017 – 09/2018

Sales

TeamOne, Isosell

During my time in Morocco, I worked at Isosell, a company that specializes in international telephone sales. I worked in outbound B2B sales with clients in Spain and France, using my fluency in both Spanish and French. Within Isosell, I've represented two clients: Exaprint and VirtualExpo. As this was my first sales job, I've familiarized myself with approaching clients telephonically. Also, I've gotten used to working in a high-pressure office environment, and have sharpened my administration skills.

07/2017 – Present

Translator and Interpreter

Freelancer

Since finishing my Master's in Literary Translation at the University of Granada, I've accepted various commissions for translation work. Amongst these, I've translated Adrastée Némésis déesse de l'affliction, a small book. Also I've worked as an interpreter for Epitsa, a Spanish company specialized in engineering and IT.

04/2016 – 07/2016

Internship

Fundación Al Fanar

This internship with the Al Fanar Foundation consisted of translating, proofreading and subtitling various articles, books and videos, which can be found on the Al Fanar homepage (www.fundacionalfanar.org).

07/2015 – 08/2015

Internship

Bureau Kharbachi

During my summer stay in Morocco in 2015, I interned at Bureau Kharbachi, a sworn translation bureau. Here, I've gained a lot of experience translating official documents.

Education:

09/2015 – 07/2017

MA Professional Translation (AR>ES)

Universidad de Granada

09/2010 – 06/2015

BA Translation and Interpretation (AR, IT>ES)

Universidad de Granada

During my bachelor and Master's degree, I have acquired the knowledge and skills necessary to be a professional translator. I have learned how to use the assisted translation programs, a new language (Italian) and subtitling programs.

09/2009 – 07/2010

BA Hispanic Philology

Universidad Autónoma de Madrid

After high school, I entered university in Madrid to study Hispanic Philology. Having always been interested in literature and culture, this seemed like the perfect studies for me. However, despite enjoying the studies, I realized that what I really wanted to do was to translate.

09/1998 – 07/2009

Primary and High School

Colegio Español de Rabat

At the Spanish College in Rabat, I received a typical Spanish education; organized by the Spanish Ministry of Education. This allowed me to pass the entrance exams for my studies at the University of Granada.

Additional details and interests:

2014/2015

Collective translation project

Universidad de Granada

During this project, an anthology of poetry was translated from Arabic into six languages. I participated as a translator and supervisor for the Italian group. Since I am Moroccan and very familiar with the Arabic language, it was my job to make sure that the project stayed true to the original works.

Hobbies: Playing guitar, reading, writing and traveling.
