COPYWRITER ENGLISH/SPANISH/FRENCH – REMOTE (2021-2023)

Glen's Dog Inn & Glen's Pet Travel

Trilingual writing for the purpose of advertising & marketing. Crafting text that's designed to promote a product, a service to persuade a target audience to take a specific action, such as buying a product or a service. Good copywriting can help a business communicate its value to potential buyers and stand out in a crowded marketplace. Working across a wide range of platforms, including company websites, social media sites, email, advertisements, and more. Copywriting requires a strong understanding of the target audience, as well as an ability to write in a way that's engaging, informative, and persuasive.

Skills:

- Self-motivation (helps meet the client's deadlines),
- Time Management & Ability to meet deadlines,
- Audience Understanding (ability to empathize with the client's target audience is key, understanding the audience means knowing what information readers want and making it easily and quickly available, making sure to address the target audience's specific desires and pain points, so you can persuade them to act),

- Creative Thinking (creative and original ideas for marketing campaigns and messaging, especially important in today's competitive and crowded marketplace, where businesses and organizations are constantly looking for ways to stand out and differentiate themselves from their competitors),
- Thinking outside the box (coming up with fresh and innovative approaches to advertising and marketing, with new ideas for campaigns or finding unique ways to present information),
- Attention to detail (carefully proofreading and editing work to ensure it is error-free), Marketing Knowledge (strong understanding of marketing and branding principles, of how to craft a message that's aligned with the overall marketing campaign of the business),
- Research Skills (copywriting and content creation require understanding the product the company is advertising, readers are inundated with information, and they're tired of reading fluff pieces that exaggerate the facts or fail to include reliable information. They want solid, well-researched, informative articles that tell them something new),
- Ability to incorporate feedback (every copywriter gets feedback from colleagues, editors, and clients, it is important be able to take the feedback in, be flexible, analyze it and incorporate it into our vision,
- Passion (those who create the most compelling content have a passionate voice, it comes through in everything they write, infusing their choice of words with energy and enthusiasm that's contagious, the best way to write copy is by getting so connected to the client's product or service that you end up wanting to purchase it yourself. If you can convince yourself to care about the product, you'll be able to convince the audience.
- SEO Knowledge (SEO stands for search engine optimization, which is critical for blog writing, writing web pages, and more, pretty good understanding of basic SEO practices, like long tail keyword phrases, writing relevant, concise, and targeted meta descriptions, understanding how headings, unique URLs, and subheadings work with SEO best practices, ability to know how to research keywords and provide y with a list of suggestions for three- to four-word phrases that should be part of the content marketing strategies,
- Writing skills (great persuasive writing skills, easy-to-read content, crafting clear, concise, and compelling messages, writing in a way that's engaging and easy to understand, ability to make complex topics simple, writing great transitions, and choosing the best words that engage the client's readers.
