I studied Political Science at the University of Vienna for two years (2013 — 2015), with the aim of deepening my knowledge in the field and, at the same time, keep improving my German.

Later on, I moved to Bologna, Italy, where I continued studying in this field as a strategy to learn Italian, and, at the same time, acquire a better knowledge of politics from the Italian perspective (2015 — 2016).

As of now, I am currently living in Porto, where I just started studying Portuguese and French, so I can interpret from them in the middle and short term.
